His memory was affected very seriously.

Dr. Ward said that the patient's health would not be detrimentally affected by a examination such as he made yesteray, but a cross-examination by council would undoubtedly be injurious. His disease appeared to be a progressive one, and was not the result of a sudden attack of paralysis.

The Committee thought it would be as well not to examine Martin.

Mr. Moss asked the witness if Supt. Byrnes had not caught him by the hair and offered him other violence, but Mr. Marrett denied this. He was only hustled about. Marrett said he was seventy-tour years old. Subsequently, he had met Ryan, who told him that he too had been picked up and threatened and compelied to tell the District-Attorney all he knew about the Gardner case.

Mr. Moss called attention to the methods of intimidation employed by the Police Department, as shown by Marrett's testimony. It was the first time, he said, that the facts in regard to the Gardner case had been made public.

No Use to Complain.

No Une to Complain. Senator O'Connor wanted to know why Marrett had never made a complaint against. Supt. Byrnes for way-laying him and imprisoning him in such a way, but he said he thought it would be of no use.

After he had told his story of Gardser to Supt. Byrnes, the latter, the witness said, called "Frank," and rescinded the order about procuring the two policemen and let Marrett go.

"Is Fapt. Allaire here?" asked Mr. Goff after Marrett had been excused. He was not in the court-room then, but ecretary Herbert Explains Wha He Did About Them.

THOSE ARMOR-PLATE FRAUDS.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 19.-The Senate Committee on Naval Affairs has post-poned final action on the armor-plate nembers of the Committee to-day were furnished printed copies of the testi-mony of Secretary Herbert, taken be-In this testimony the Secretary says:

"When the case came up before the department there were two courses open to me-one to abrogate the contracts with the Carnegies entirely and refuse to allow them to make any more armor plates, giving all the armor to the Bethlehem company.

"I sent for the president of the Bethlehem company and inquired, if I could get more battleships ordered, his company could make armor more cheaply than it was then doing, the prices paid the two companies being the same. I did not let him know of the investigation. His reply was he could not make any lower rate. Under these conditions I determined to let this company go on, provided it should pay damages.

"The department knew that some of these plates were defective, but it was believed they would stand the lowest test. I thought, therefore, it was better to leave the plates on the ships and simply assess damages."

Mr. Herbert also said the inspecting officers had not been as diligent as they n this testimony the Secretary says The Inspector did not appear at Police Headquarters to-day, and it was said that he had reported ill.

The suddenness of this attack of ill-ness is not less remarkable than its simultaneous occurrence with the action of the Committee.

The Inspector was at Headquarters yesterday, actively engaged in business, and in the apparent enjoyment of his usual excellent health.

When an "Evening World" reporter called at Inspector McLaughlin's house, at 449 West Twenty-second street, this morning, he was informed that the Inspector was in bed sick. simply assess damages."

Mr. Herbert also said the inspecting officers had not been as diligent as they might have been.

He adds: "Since the discovery of these frauds they have been more vigilant, not only there but elsewhere, and two cases since that time, where other companies have been detected in frauds, have been reported. The inspectors at the Carnegle works were imposed upon for the reason that they were not present at night. Now they inspect day and behate on Currency Bill Resumed in the House.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 19.—As soon as the regular routine had been disposed of to-day, the House went into Committee of the Whole, and the debate on the Currency bill was resumed. Mr. John-son, (Rep., Ind.), one of the minority nembers of the Banking and Currency Committee, opened the debate with a vigorous speech in opposition to the Carlisle bill. He said the bill would not obviate the defects in our currency system. The present system had given the country a greenback currency, which enabled the Government to carry on the war, and it produced a market for our bonds in the hour of danger and peril. The currency it produced had never been questioned. It was no time for experimental legislation.

In the Benate to-day Admiral Walker's report was referred without discussion to the Committee on Foreign Relations. An act relating to abandoned military reservations, was passed without division. A resolution was introduced by Mr. Allen (Pop. Neb.,) providing for the appointment of a select committee to investigate political affairs in Alabama, which, at his request, was laid on the table in order that he might submit some remarks on it later. committee, opened the debate with
